

FULBRIGHT SCHOLAR-IN-RESIDENCE

LEMOYNE-OWEN
COLLEGE

Experience the rich cultural hub of Soulsville in Memphis,
Tennessee as a Fulbright Scholar-in-Residence at LeMoyne-Owen College.

ABOUT THE OPPORTUNITY

The Scholar-in-Residence (SIR) will teach courses, assist in curriculum development, guest lecture, possibly assist in developing study abroad/exchange partnerships and engage with the campus serving on various committees such as the Academic Honors, Standards & Selection Committee; Curriculum & Instruction Committee; Faculty & Instructional Development Committee; Honors Activities Committee; Library & Research Committee; Student Development Committee and the local community.

Activity Type: Teaching

Disciplines: Graphic Arts or Mass Communications

Scholar Profile: Master's Degree

Award Length: 9 months

Award Start: August 2024

Benefits: Round-trip international air travel, a monthly stipend, an allowance for up to two dependents, and initial settling-in and professional allowances and a local activity allowance.

Academic Program:

Fine Arts and Humanities/Social and Behavioral Sciences/Graphic Design/Art - The SIR would be responsible for leading the introductory level or intermediate classes for ARTS 302 Intro to Graphic Design, ARTS 322 Pixel Imaging, ARTS 323 Vector Imaging, and/or ARTS 406 Basic Computer Illustration (max. 2). In addition will assist the Marketing/Advertising department and organizations on campus with creative projects.

Mass Communications - The SIR will be responsible for providing instruction for intro and intermediate courses (exp. Media Writing, Intro to Mass Communications or Communications Law. Will work with the Area Coord on the print and digital newspaper project, and will work towards consolidating the in-roads made by the Area Coord on the student group - Journalism and Mass Communication Club - and engage with the students. All Visiting Scholars will engage in student advising and curriculum redesign.

Other Activities: The SIR will engage with faculty and administrators while serving on various committees:

- Academic Honors, Standards & Selection Committee: Review policies regarding academic honors and standards and monitoring students with academic deficiencies:
- Curriculum & Instruction Committee: Review proposals for change.
- Faculty & Instructional Development Committee: Review policies and programs that will enhance the professional growth of the faculty and enable them to better deliver an education to students.
- Honors Activities Committee: Provide counsel, coordination and activities for honors students.
- Library & Research Committee: Assist in the development of research capacities of students and faculty.
- Student Development Committee: Help devise a plan for student development, recruitment and retention.

In addition, the SIR will advise students, present on campus at cultural, civic, and social events sponsored by the institution, alumni and corporate organizations.

Community Outreach: In our quest to expand mutual awareness between people of other countries and the United States, It is our goal to have the Scholar-in-Residence participate in programs sponsored by organizations, other educational institutions, business and industry, and governmental agencies on the local, state, and national level, We are hopeful opportunity will avail itself for not only LeMoyne-Owen College students, but students in our local high schools, other educational institutions, etc. We want to spread the word and provide speaking engagements, community meetings, and other grassroots activities, All logistics, travel, planning and implementation will be strategically handled through the institution.